Foreword by the First Minister

The National Conversation, launched in August 2007, has been a unique exercise in participative democracy. People across Scotland – from the voluntary sector, trades unions, business and local communities – took part through public meetings, written contributions and online.

On St Andrew’s Day 2009 we published the White Paper Your Scotland, Your Voice, a comprehensive examination of the options for Scotland’s future – the status quo, further devolution and independence.

This Government believes in the sovereignty of the people of Scotland. We are committed to giving the people the opportunity to express their views in a referendum. More than 10 years on from the establishment of the Scottish Parliament the debate in Scotland is no longer about whether or not the Parliament should take on new responsibilities. The people want our Parliament to be able to do more, so the debate is now about how much more. And it is time the people had their say.

I believe that the future prosperity and development of Scotland is best served by Scotland becoming independent. The case for an independent Scotland is stronger and more urgent following recent economic events. It is exactly the flexibility that is offered by independence that Scotland needs if it is to deal most effectively with such challenges in the future. But I recognise that there are also those who argue that the responsibilities of the Scottish Parliament should be extended in more limited ways.

The draft Referendum Bill set out in this document would give the Scottish people the opportunity to have their say on two questions: first, whether the Scottish Parliament should have more devolved responsibility; second, whether there should be an additional transfer of the power to enable Scotland to become an independent country. The document seeks views on the best option for the question on further devolution: full devolution including fiscal autonomy, or the more limited proposals for the financing of the Scottish Parliament made by the Commission on Scottish Devolution.

The draft Bill provides the framework for a referendum shaped by the people of Scotland. I look forward to your response to this consultation, the debate on the Bill, and the referendum itself.

The Rt Hon Alex Salmond MP MSP
First Minister of Scotland
Summary

This consultation paper sets out proposals for a Referendum (Scotland) Bill. The draft Bill set out in the appendix to this paper provides the framework for the conduct of the referendum. The Scottish Government plans to introduce the Bill in 2010 and will be seeking the agreement of the Scottish Parliament that the referendum should be held as soon as possible.

Chapter 1 – The Ballot Papers

The Scottish Government believes that Scotland’s future interests would be best served by assuming all of the responsibilities and rights of a normal European state. Independence would give the Scottish Parliament and Government full responsibility for those matters currently reserved to the United Kingdom Parliament and Government, including key economic and political powers and the right of representation for Scotland in the European Union. Other aspects of an independent Scotland would remain the same. Her Majesty The Queen would remain as Head of State and the social union with the remainder of the UK would be maintained, with the nations continuing to co-operate on a range of matters.

However, the Scottish Government acknowledges that there is also support for extending the powers of the Scottish Parliament in more limited ways. The draft Bill would provide the people of Scotland with the opportunity to vote on two questions:

- the first about an extension of the powers and responsibilities of the Scottish Parliament, short of independence;
- the second about whether the Scottish Parliament should also have its powers extended to enable independence to be achieved.

The Scottish Government invites views on two possible options for the first question, one of which would be included on the referendum ballot paper. The first option, full devolution (sometimes called “devolution max”), would give the Scottish Parliament and Government responsibility for almost all domestic matters and most revenues and public spending in Scotland. The UK Parliament and Government would continue to have responsibility for defence, foreign affairs, financial regulation, monetary policy and the currency.

The second option for the first question would involve a more limited extension of devolution based on the financial recommendations made by the Commission on Scottish Devolution (the “Calman Commission”) in June 2009. The Scottish Parliament would have the following additional responsibilities:

- responsibility to set a Scottish rate of Income Tax, which could vary by up to 10p in the pound from the rate in the rest of the UK;
- power to set the rates of Stamp Duty Land Tax and other minor taxes, and to introduce new taxes in Scotland with the agreement of the UK Parliament; and
- limited power to borrow money.

The Scottish Government believes that these Calman Commission proposals for financial devolution are seriously flawed and fall far short of the fiscal responsibilities which the Scottish Parliament requires. It believes that they also fall short of what would normally be seen as requiring a referendum. Indeed, those parties who took part in the Calman Commission have made clear their view that a referendum on these proposals is not necessary. However, the Income Tax proposal goes further than the tax-varying power which resulted from the vote in the second question in the 1997 Scottish devolution referendum. Therefore the Scottish Government can see that there is an argument for including the Calman financial recommendations within a multi-option referendum and that approach is put forward here for consideration.

Chapter 1 also considers possible voting methods for a multi-option referendum. The method proposed – two questions with yes/no answers – is simple, provides a definitive result and is the same as that used in the 1997 referendum on Scottish devolution. A “yes” result for either question would be on the basis of a simple majority (more than 50%) of votes cast.

The referendum will be advisory, in that it will have no legislative effect. However, the Scottish Government would expect the UK and Scottish Parliaments and the respective Governments to listen to the views of the Scottish people and act on them.

Chapter 2 – Mechanics of the Referendum

The proposed rules about the conduct of the poll are based on those applying to the conduct of elections to the UK Parliament, Scottish Parliament and local councils. The referendum will be a traditional ballot-box poll held on a single day, with votes counted by hand, and a national declaration of the result. The Chief Counting Officer will be appointed by the Scottish Ministers and must be an existing or former returning officer for elections in Scotland.

The total cost of conducting the referendum is likely to be around £9.5 million, the bulk of which will be spent on running the poll and the count. Proportionately this is comparable to the estimated cost of as much as £120 million for the Alternative Vote referendum proposed by the UK Government for the whole of the UK.

The draft Bill follows the precedent of the 1997 referendum in that eligibility to vote is based on that for Scottish Parliament and Scottish local government elections. This is consistent with the internationally accepted principle that constitutional referendums should have a franchise determined by residency. The only departure from the 1997 franchise is that the draft Bill extends the vote to those aged 16 or 17 who are on the electoral register on the date of the poll. This is in line with the Scottish Government view that the voting age should be reduced to 16 for all elections.

Chapter 3 – Regulating the Campaign

The draft Bill includes rules to ensure that the referendum campaigns are run in a demonstrably fair and transparent manner. The rules are largely based on existing UK legislation.

The draft Bill creates a Scottish Referendum Commission to monitor the referendum. The Commission will, with limited exceptions, be completely independent of the Scottish Parliament and Government in the conduct of its affairs. The Commission’s functions will include publishing guidance for voters, Counting Officers, individuals and organisations campaigning in the referendum, observing the conduct of the poll and count, and reporting to the Scottish Parliament.

The draft Bill provides that an individual or organisation wishing to spend more than £3,000 on campaigning for a particular outcome must register with the Commission as a ‘permitted participant’. A ‘permitted participant’ may apply to the Commission to be the principal campaigner (the ‘designated organisation’) for an outcome in the referendum. In order to ensure a level playing field, the draft Bill imposes the spending limits shown in the table.

The draft Bill does not provide for any public funding for those who wish to campaign.

The draft Bill provides that, for the 28-day period before the referendum, the Scottish Ministers and certain public authorities in Scotland cannot publish material about the referendum which might influence its outcome.

Conclusion

This consultation is your opportunity to shape the referendum on Scotland’s constitutional future. Chapter 4 explains how to respond. The deadline for responses is Friday 30 April 2010.

¹ Each designated organisation will also be entitled to one free postal communication to every household in Scotland to promote its campaign.
Introduction

The people of Scotland have been clear about their desire for our Parliament to have more responsibilities and in the white paper, Your Scotland, Your Voice\(^2\), the Scottish Government has set out the options for our nation. The next step is to allow the people to have their say in a free and fair referendum.

This consultation provides the people with the opportunity to shape that referendum. The draft Referendum (Scotland) Bill set out in this document includes proposed ballot papers for a two-question referendum: the first question asking about an extension of the Scottish Parliament’s powers short of independence, the second about whether the powers of the Scottish Parliament should also be extended to enable independence to be achieved.

Chapter 1 invites views on the principle of a multi-option referendum. It sets out two potential approaches to the first question: one based on the concept of full devolution and another based on the limited recommendations for financial devolution made by the Commission on Scottish Devolution (the “Calman Commission”).

Chapter 2 deals with the rules about the conduct of the poll and eligibility to vote including a proposal that those aged 16 or 17 on the date of the referendum should be entitled to vote if they are registered to do so.

Chapter 3 seeks views on proposals for regulating the campaign and ensuring that it is run in a demonstrably fair and transparent manner. Those rules are largely based on existing UK legislation covering elections and referendums.

Chapter 4 explains how the consultation on the draft Bill will work and how comments should be submitted. A form is provided to enable you to respond.

The Appendix sets out the full text of the draft Bill.

Chapter Summary

- While the Scottish Government’s favoured policy is independence, it acknowledges that there is support within Scotland for a range of positions on increased responsibilities for the Scottish Parliament. In order to reflect this as fully as possible, the Scottish Government is consulting on a referendum which would put two questions to the people of Scotland: firstly a question about the extension of the powers and responsibilities to the Scottish Parliament short of independence, and secondly a question about whether the Scottish Parliament should also have its powers extended to enable independence to be achieved.

- However, there is currently no consensus about what the further devolution option should be. The draft Bill therefore sets out two alternative versions for consideration.

1.1. Devolution was never intended to be a fixed arrangement. It was and is a process which should respond to political, economic and social circumstances over time. Devolved responsibilities have been increased on several occasions over the last decade, for example in relation to railways. Now, as the Scottish Parliament enters a second decade, it is clear that there is broad support for extending the Parliament’s powers and responsibilities further. The Scottish Government therefore believes that options for extending those powers and responsibilities should be put before the people of Scotland in a referendum.

1.2. The Scottish Government believes that Scotland’s future interests would be best served by it becoming an independent country and assuming all of the responsibilities and rights of a normal European state. Independence would bring responsibilities that could not be devolved within the UK, such as macroeconomic policy, full European representation and defence policy.

1.3. However, the Scottish Government acknowledges that there is support within Scotland for a range of other positions. Your Scotland, Your Voice therefore set out four possible scenarios for Scotland’s future: the status quo, further devolution based on the recommendations of the Commission on Scottish Devolution (the “Calman” Commission), full devolution and independence.

1.4. Opinion polls confirm the broad support for giving the Scottish Parliament greater responsibilities. For example, an Ipsos MORI poll in November 2009 found that 66% of those questioned favoured the Scottish Parliament having increased powers, whether in terms of further devolution or independence, while only 32% favoured the status quo.

1.5. Another poll, by Angus Reid in December 2009 following the publication of Your Scotland, Your Voice, asked respondents which of the four scenarios for Scotland’s future outlined in that publication they preferred. The poll found that 64% of respondents living in Scotland favoured increased powers, with 25% favouring independence, 22% favouring some additional powers along the lines of the Calman recommendations, and 17% favouring more additional powers, including full fiscal powers.

1.6. The recent Scottish Social Attitudes\(^5\) survey put the percentage supporting further powers even higher, with 69% of those questioned favouring significantly more powers for the Scottish Parliament.

The Proposed Referendum

1.7. The draft Bill would provide the people of Scotland with the opportunity to vote on two proposals:

- the first about an extension of the powers and responsibilities of the Scottish Parliament, short of independence;
- the second about whether the Scottish Parliament should also have its powers extended to enable independence to be achieved.

1.8. The Scottish Government recognises that those who support further devolution do not have a consensus position. The draft Bill therefore sets out two versions of the first ballot paper:

- the first version covering full devolution (sometimes called “devolution max”) and involving devolution of a wide range of policy responsibilities, while leaving macroeconomic policy, defence and foreign affairs with the UK Parliament and Government; and
- the second covering the proposals on the financing of the Scottish Parliament made by the Commission on Scottish Devolution (the “Calman” Commission).

1.9. These alternatives are considered below in greater detail. The proposed ballot papers are set out on pages 20-22.

First Ballot Paper

Version 1 – Full Devolution

1.10. Contributions to the National Conversation have indicated support for a range of proposals which reduce the matters reserved under the Scotland Act 1998. Under full devolution, the Scottish Parliament and Government would take on more responsibility for domestic matters and for raising, collecting and administering all (or the vast majority of) revenues in Scotland and the vast bulk of public spending. The UK Government and institutions would continue to have responsibility for matters such as macroeconomic policy and defence, but the Scottish Parliament and Government would have a greater range of measures available to them to support sustainable economic growth.

1.11. Version 1 of the first ballot paper asks voters whether the Scottish Parliament should have its powers extended so that it is fully responsible for laws, taxes and duties in Scotland, except for certain things which would remain the responsibility of the UK

\(^5\) Scottish Social Attitudes Survey 2009, 15 January 2010

Parliament. Key issues which would continue to be the responsibility of the UK Parliament would include:

- defence and foreign affairs;
- financial regulation, monetary policy and the currency.

Version 2 – The “Calman” Financial Recommendations

1.12. The Commission on Scottish Devolution (the “Calman Commission”), chaired by Sir Kenneth Calman, published its final report\(^{6}\) in June 2009. It made 63 recommendations in four categories: strengthening financial accountability; strengthening co-operation between the Scottish and UK Parliaments; strengthening the devolution settlement; and strengthening the Scottish Parliament. It made no recommendations in a number of important areas including economic issues, employment and company law, and foreign affairs.

1.13. The Scottish Government published its formal response to the Commission’s recommendations on 9 November 2009\(^{7}\). It supports many of the Commission’s recommendations for additional devolution and strengthened co-operation. It has sought action by the UK Government to secure early implementation of those on which there is consensus, a position supported by the Scottish Parliament following a debate in December 2009\(^{8}\). In the Scottish Government’s view, however, the Commission’s proposals for financial accountability are seriously flawed and fall far short of the fiscal responsibilities which Scotland needs to become a more successful country. That conclusion has been backed by a number of respected and independent economic commentators\(^{9}\).

1.14. It is not clear whether any of the parties which supported the Commission will fully support the implementation of its recommendations. The UK Government published its proposals for taking forward some of the Commission’s recommendations on 25 November 2009\(^{10}\). The leader of the Conservative Party indicated in December 2009 that a Conservative government would set out its own proposals for implementation\(^{11}\). The parties which took part in the Commission have, however, made clear their view that a referendum on the Calman proposals is not necessary.

\(^{8}\) The Scottish Parliament passed the following motion on 9 December 2009 “That the Parliament welcomes the recommendations of the Calman Commission on Scottish Devolution that responsibility for the law across a range of areas be devolved to the Scottish Parliament and also welcomes the recommendations for closer working between the Scottish and UK Ministers to ensure that the needs of Scotland are properly represented, and urges the UK Government to work with the Scottish Parliament to ensure that, where there is consensus, all such recommendations are implemented before the dissolution of the current UK Parliament.” S3M-5365, Official Report Cols 21957-22012 http://www.scottish.parliament.uk/business/officialReports/meetingsParliament/or-09/sor1209-02.htm

1.15. The Scottish Government’s view is also that the Commission’s recommendations fall short of the increase in responsibilities that would normally be seen as requiring referendum consultation. Nevertheless, the Scottish Government notes that the proposal to give the Scottish Parliament tax-varying powers was put to voters as the second question in the 1997 devolution referendum. This resulted in the Scottish Parliament having the power to vary income tax by up to 3p in the pound. Given that the Calman recommendations include a proposal to give the Scottish Parliament responsibility for setting a Scottish rate of Income Tax, which could vary by up to 10p in the pound from the rate in the rest of the UK, the Scottish Government can see that there is an argument for including the Calman financial recommendations within a multi-option referendum.

1.16. Version 2 of the first ballot paper therefore sets out for consideration a proposed question which would ask voters whether the Scottish Parliament should have its financial responsibilities extended as recommended by the Calman Commission. Those additional responsibilities are:

- responsibility to set a Scottish rate of Income Tax which could vary by up to 10p in the pound from the rate in the rest of the UK;
- power to set the rates of Stamp Duty Land Tax and other minor taxes, and to introduce new taxes in Scotland with the agreement of the UK Parliament; and
- limited power to borrow money.

QUESTION 1

What are your views on the proposed referendum which seeks the people’s views on two proposals for extending the powers of the Scottish Parliament?

QUESTION 2

What do you think should be the first proposal in that referendum: full devolution (Version 1 of Ballot Paper 1), or the Calman-based option (Version 2 of Ballot Paper 1)?

Second Ballot Paper – Additional power to enable Scotland to become an independent country

1.17. Your Scotland, Your Voice sets out the range of issues for which the Government and Parliament of an independent Scotland would be responsible. They can be summarised as follows:

- the economy, including decisions on the currency and the macroeconomic framework;
- investment in education, enterprise and infrastructure, including transport and housing;
- the environment, energy and climate change;
- the taxation and benefits system;
- the full range of public services, including benefits and health;
- foreign affairs, defence and security matters. For example, Scotland would continue membership of the European Union, representing its own national interests in the same way as other member states, influencing directly the overall direction of European Union policy. An independent Scotland would also have full representation on other European and international bodies;
• equality legislation and human rights; and
• the constitution and government of Scotland, including Parliament, the courts and local government.

1.18. Independence would complete the responsibilities of the Scottish Parliament and Government while allowing existing structures and services – many of which are already devolved – to continue.

1.19. Her Majesty The Queen would remain as Head of State. The current parliamentary and political Union of Great Britain and Northern Ireland would become a monarchical and social Union – united kingdoms rather than a United Kingdom – maintaining a relationship forged in 1603 by the Union of the Crowns.

1.20. Within this relationship, a broad range of cultural, social and policy links would continue and it is likely that both an independent Scotland and the remainder of the UK would seek to maintain and build on a series of cross-border partnerships and services. As members of the European Union, both Scotland and the rest of the UK would enjoy full access to the other’s markets and there would be freedom to travel and work in either country.

1.21. Scotland would continue to operate within the Sterling system until any decision to join the Euro by the people of Scotland in a referendum.

1.22. The Scottish Government proposes that any extension of the powers and responsibilities of the Scottish Parliament should include an additional power to enable Scotland to become an independent country. Ballot paper 2 contains a referendum proposal to that effect.

Voting Method for a Multi-option Referendum

1.23. There are a number of voting methods which could be used for a multi-option referendum. Many of the more complex methods have never been used in national elections or referendums, and none have been used in a comparable referendum.
The Scottish Government has therefore considered two of the most easily understandable voting methods for which there have been successful precedents:

• Method 1 – Preferential Voting (Alternative Vote) using a ballot paper with three options. Voters would have the chance to rank the options by putting a “1” by their first preference and a “2” by their second preference. If no option has an absolute majority of first-preference votes, the option with the lowest number of first-preference votes is eliminated and these ballots are redistributed to the remaining options according to the second preferences marked; and

• Method 2 – Two ballot papers with two separate questions with results calculated for each using simple majority voting.

1.24. The approaches both have merits:

• Method 1 – This should be familiar to voters as the system for local government elections. It would take into account second choices, and any option chosen by adding up the preferences would have the support of at least 50% of voters.
However, it could be argued to be more difficult for voters to understand, and more complicated for those counting the votes.

- Method 2 – The two-question system is a simple one both for voters to understand and for those conducting the count. It provides a definitive result and is in line with the approach taken in the 1997 Scottish devolution referendum\(^{12}\).

1.25. The method adopted in the draft Bill is Method 2. As in the 1997 referendum, the questions would be on two separate, and differently coloured, ballot papers.

QUESTION 3

The Scottish Government proposes voting method 2 (two separate yes/no questions). What are your views on this?

The Referendum Proposals and Informing Voters

1.26. Scottish Parliament legislation must conform to the provisions of the Scotland Act 1998. The Scotland Act has in-built flexibility so that the Scottish Parliament’s powers can be extended over time. The Scottish Parliament has a role in such processes, for example in relation to orders made under section 30 of the Act. It is therefore legitimate for a referendum held under an Act of the Scottish Parliament to ask the people questions related to an extension of its powers insofar as this is within the framework of the Scotland Act.

1.27. The wording of the proposals has also been developed with the UK Electoral Commission’s guidelines on referendum questions in mind. Those guidelines state that a referendum question should present the options clearly, simply and neutrally, and should:

- be easy to understand;
- be to the point;
- be unambiguous;
- avoid encouraging voters to consider one response more favourably than another; and
- avoid misleading voters.

1.28. The proposed ballot papers are set out on pages 20-22. To ensure that voters are fully informed about the proposals, an information leaflet would be sent to every household. This would be distinct from any material produced by those campaigning for a particular outcome in the referendum. This was the approach taken by the UK Government in the lead-up to the 1997 referendum about the Scottish Parliament.

QUESTION 4

What are your views on the wording and format of the ballot papers?

---

\(^{12}\) The 1997 referendum on Scottish devolution asked voters to indicate whether they 1) agreed or disagreed that there should be a Scottish Parliament and 2) agreed or disagreed that a Scottish Parliament should have tax-varying powers.
Timing of the Referendum

1.29. The date of the referendum will depend on the parliamentary progress of the Bill, and will ultimately be for the Scottish Parliament to decide. The Scottish Government will be seeking the agreement of the Parliament that the referendum should be held as soon as possible.

Referendum Results

1.30. The referendum will be advisory, in that it will have no legislative effect. It will not be subject to any minimum turnout requirement or approval threshold (where approval is required by a minimum percentage of registered voters). It is well established in the UK\textsuperscript{13} and across western Europe\textsuperscript{14} that referendums should be decided by those who choose to vote on a simple majority basis. The 1997 Scottish devolution referendum was conducted on that basis.

1.31. The Venice Commission’s 2005 report \textit{Referendums in Europe – An Analysis of the Legal Rules in European States} notes that most European states do not set thresholds for referendums - either in terms of participation or approval - that have to be exceeded for referendum results to be valid. In 2006 the Venice Commission published a voluntary \textit{Code of Good Practice for Referendums} setting out the views of this Council of Europe Commission on best practice for referendums. Article 7 of the Code explicitly states that minimum turnout requirements and abnormal majority thresholds are not advisable. In the Scottish Government’s view this is the correct approach.

1.32. While the referendum will have no legal effect on the Union, the Scottish Government would expect the UK and Scottish Parliaments and the respective Governments to listen to the views of the Scottish people and act on them.

What Would Follow the Referendum

(a) \textit{A majority vote against both proposals}

1.33. Those not in favour of either proposal for extension of the powers and responsibilities of the Scottish Parliament would vote "no/no". If that were the majority position neither proposal would be taken forward.

(b) \textit{A vote in favour of the first proposal only}

1.34. The first proposal asks voters whether they agree that the powers and responsibilities of the Scottish Parliament should be extended so that the Parliament becomes responsible for a range of matters (either full responsibility for domestic matters as set \textsuperscript{13} The 1975 UK Referendum on continued membership of the EEC, the 1997 devolution referendums in Scotland and Wales, the 1998 Greater London Authority referendum, the 1998 referendum on the Belfast Agreement in Northern Ireland and the 2004 referendum on a regional assembly for the North East of England were all conducted without a minimum turnout requirement and with the result determined by a simple majority.

\textsuperscript{14} Examples of recent referendums in western Europe where no minimum turnout requirement or approval threshold was set are: the 1992 Maastricht treaty referendums in France and Ireland, the 1994 referendum on joining the EU and the 2003 referendum on adopting the Euro in Sweden, the 2005 referendums on the Constitution for the EU in Spain, France and the Netherlands, the 2006 referendum on greater autonomy for Catalonia and the 2008 and 2009 Lisbon Treaty Referendums in Ireland.
out in the full devolution proposal or more responsibility for financial affairs as recommended by the Calman Commission).

1.35. If there is a majority vote in favour of this proposal, but not for proposal 2, it would be for the Scottish and UK Parliaments to take forward implementation. Depending on the devolution package agreed by the people, the transfer of powers could be achieved through Orders in Council under the Scotland Act 1998 (which require the assent of both Parliaments), through an Act of the Westminster Parliament (which under the “Sewel Convention” would also require the agreement of the Scottish Parliament as it would alter the functions of the Parliament and the Scottish Ministers), or through a combination of the two mechanisms.

1.36. The Scottish Government would expect the UK Government to work with it to bring forward proposals for implementation by the two Parliaments in a timely manner in order to put in place the additional devolved responsibilities which the Scottish people have agreed should be put in place.

1.37. The process by which such an extension of the powers of the Scottish Parliament could be secured would therefore be as follows:

- The Scottish Parliament passes the Referendum Bill enabling the views of the Scottish electorate to be sought on whether there should be additional devolution in the terms set out above.
- The referendum is held following a campaign period in which proponents of the status quo, extension of the Parliament’s powers without power to enable independence and extension of powers to enable independence will each have their opportunity to make their case to the Scottish people.
- The people of Scotland express their views through the referendum.
- Following the necessary negotiations between the Scottish and UK Governments, it would then - in line with the position set out in paragraph 1.32 - be for the Scottish and UK Parliaments to act on the expressed will of the Scottish people.

(c) A vote in favour of the second proposal

1.38. The second proposal asks voters whether they agree that the extension of the Scottish Parliament’s powers set out in proposal 1 should be supplemented by a further power to enable independence to be achieved.

1.39. The Scottish Government believes that the future prosperity and development of Scotland is best served by it becoming an independent country. It will continue to make this case and argue that Scotland should become independent.

1.40. The process by which Scotland could become independent would be as follows:

- The Scottish Parliament passes the Referendum Bill enabling the views of the Scottish electorate to be sought on extending the powers of the Scottish Parliament to enable it to decide on independence.
- The referendum is held following a campaign period in which proponents of the status quo, extension of the Parliament’s powers without power to enable independence and extension of powers to enable independence will each have their opportunity to make their case to the Scottish people. The Scottish Government would campaign for a "yes/yes" vote on the basis that independence is the best future for Scotland.
• The people of Scotland express their views through a "yes/yes" result in the referendum.
• Following the necessary negotiations between the Scottish and UK Governments, it would then be for the Scottish and UK Parliaments to act on the expressed will of the Scottish people, again in line with the position set out in paragraph 1.32.
The Scottish Parliament has decided to consult people in Scotland on proposals to seek the transfer of more powers to the Parliament.

Proposal 1 is on this ballot paper. Proposal 2 is on a separate ballot paper. You can vote on both proposals.

Background to Proposal 1

The Scottish Government, in the paper Your Scotland, Your Voice (published on 30 November 2009), set out a proposal for extending the powers and responsibilities of the Scottish Parliament while Scotland remains part of the United Kingdom.

Under this proposal the Scottish Parliament would, with certain exceptions, be responsible for all laws, taxes and duties in Scotland. The exceptions, which would continue to be the responsibility of the United Kingdom Parliament, are—
- defence and foreign affairs,
- financial regulation, monetary policy and the currency.

Proposal 1 – Increased powers and responsibilities for Scotland

The Scottish Parliament should have its powers and responsibilities extended as described above.

FIRST BALLOT PAPER (VERSION 2: CALMAN FISCAL REFORMS)
The Scottish Parliament has decided to consult people in Scotland on proposals to seek the transfer of more powers to the Parliament.

Proposal 1 is on this ballot paper. Proposal 2 is on a separate ballot paper. You can vote on both proposals.

Background to Proposal 1

The Commission on Scottish Devolution (the “Calman Commission”) recommended in its report of 15 June 2009 that the Scottish Parliament should have the following additional financial powers and responsibilities—

- responsibility for setting a Scottish rate of Income Tax which could vary by up to 10p in the pound from the rate in the rest of the United Kingdom,
- power to set the rates of Stamp Duty Land Tax and other minor taxes, and to introduce new taxes in Scotland with the agreement of the United Kingdom Parliament, and
- limited power to borrow money.

Proposal 1 – Increased financial powers and responsibilities for Scotland

The Scottish Parliament should have its financial powers and responsibilities extended as recommended by the Commission on Scottish Devolution.

SECOND BALLOT PAPER (POWER TO ENABLE INDEPENDENCE)

The Scottish Parliament has decided to consult people in Scotland on proposals to seek the transfer of more powers to the Parliament.

Proposal 2 is on this ballot paper. Proposal 1 is on a separate ballot paper. You can vote on both proposals.

Background to Proposal 2

The Scottish Government, in the paper Your Scotland, Your Voice (published on 30 November 2009), set out its preference for an independent Scotland which would—

• have the rights and responsibilities of a normal, sovereign state,
• be a full member of the European Union,
• maintain a relationship with the remainder of the United Kingdom where the nations co-operate on cross-border cultural, social and policy matters, and
• retain Her Majesty The Queen as Head of State.

Proposal 2 – Additional power to enable Scotland to become an independent country

The Scottish Government proposes that, in addition to the extension of the powers and responsibilities of the Scottish Parliament set out in Proposal 1, the Parliament’s powers should also be extended to enable independence to be achieved.

2 Mechanics of the Referendum

Chapter Summary

- The rules proposed for the conduct of the poll are based on those applying to the conduct of elections to the UK Parliament, Scottish Parliament and local authorities.

- The referendum will be a traditional ballot-box poll held on a single day at polling stations across the country. Voters will also have the option to vote by post or proxy. The votes will be counted by hand.

- Eligibility to vote will follow the precedent of the 1997 referendum in being based on who can vote at Scottish Parliament and Scottish local government elections. However, the draft Bill provides that those aged 16 or 17 on the electoral register on the date of the referendum will also be entitled to vote.

Conduct of the Poll and Count

2.1. The draft Bill establishes the office of the Chief Counting Officer (CCO), who will be responsible for the proper and effective conduct of the referendum. The CCO will be responsible for the running of the poll, the count and the declaration of the result.

2.2. The CCO role is one which has been established at previous referendums in the UK. The role will be similar to the CCO role in the 1997 devolution referendum in Scotland and the 2004 Regional Assembly and Local Government referendum held in 2004 in the North East of England.

2.3. The CCO will be an officer independent of Government, who has the necessary experience and expertise in running national votes. The draft Bill provides that the CCO will be appointed by the Scottish Ministers and must be an existing or former returning officer for elections in Scotland. The CCO will appoint a Counting Officer (CO) for each local authority area.

2.4. The draft Bill provides that there should be a national declaration of the result before any declaration of local results. In the 1997 referendum, a declaration was made of the result in each local authority area as that result became available. By the time the last results came through the overall national result was already decided and there was little coverage or interest in the results from the areas where the counting of votes took a little longer. The Scottish Government believes that as this is a national referendum there should be a declaration of a national result taking account of the votes cast in every part of Scotland. The results for individual local authorities would be available immediately following that national declaration.

Costs

2.5. The total cost of conducting the referendum is likely to be around £9.5 million, the bulk of which will be spent on running the poll and the count. Proportionately this is
Eligibility to Vote

2.6. Following the precedent of the 1997 referendum, eligibility to vote will be based on that for Scottish Parliament and Scottish local government elections. That means that those resident in Scotland will be eligible to vote (with the exception of citizens of non-Commonwealth and non-EU countries). This is in line with the internationally accepted principle that the franchise for constitutional referendums should be determined by residency, and with the Scottish Government’s view that sovereignty lies with the people of Scotland.

2.7. The only departure from the practice in the 1997 referendum is that the draft Bill extends the vote to those aged 16 or 17, as long as they are eligible to be registered on the electoral register.

The Local Government and Scottish Parliamentary Franchise

2.8. The franchises for local government and Scottish Parliamentary (LG & SP), Westminster Parliamentary (WP) and European Parliamentary (EP) elections are different, as set out in Table 1.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>

<tr>

<td>Members of the House of Lords resident in Scotland</td>

</tr>
</tbody>

2.9. The main differences between the LG & SP and WP franchises are that the LG & SP franchise does not include former residents of Scotland now living overseas, but does include all EU citizens residing in Scotland (who cannot vote in WP elections). None of the franchises allows citizens of non-EU and non-Commonwealth countries to vote. Former residents of Scotland now living in the rest of the UK are not included in the LG & SP franchise, or any other franchise used in Scotland. The LG & SP franchise most closely reflects residency in Scotland and has been chosen for that reason.

2.10. The following groups of people will therefore be entitled to vote in the referendum:

- British citizens resident in Scotland;
- Commonwealth citizens resident in Scotland;
- Republic of Ireland citizens resident in Scotland;
citizens of other EU countries resident in Scotland;
members of the House of Lords resident in Scotland; and Service/Crown personnel serving in the UK or overseas in the armed forces or with Her Majesty’s Government who are registered to vote in Scotland.

16 and 17 Year-olds

2.11. The Scottish Government’s view is that the voting age should be reduced to 16 for all elections. Denying 16 and 17 year-olds the vote risks them becoming disengaged from the political process at the very point society expects them to take on rights and responsibilities such as getting married or serving in the armed forces. Reducing the voting age to 16 would encourage participation by young people in Scotland’s democratic processes and will give them a voice on matters that affect them.

2.12. The principle of lowering the voting age enjoys wide support. The Liberal Democrats and Green Party support lowering the voting age, as do all of the major youth organisations in the UK. Other countries are also starting to consider this issue. For example, in 2007, Austria became the first member of the European Union to adopt a voting age of 16 for all purposes, and Germany and Switzerland have lowered the voting age in certain elections. Jersey, Guernsey and the Isle of Man also have a voting age of 16.

2.13. The Health Boards (Membership and Elections) (Scotland) Act 2009 was the first piece of Scottish legislation to allow for those aged 16 or over to vote in elections. The pilot Health Board elections are due to take place in Fife and Dumfries and Galloway on 10 June 2010. The Labour Party, Liberal Democrats and Green Party all supported these proposals when they were put before the Scottish Parliament.

2.14. For the referendum, the Scottish Government is constrained by the fact that the franchise for elections is reserved to Westminster and that the systems for establishing and maintaining the electoral register are subject to Westminster legislation. That system currently allows 16 and 17 year-olds to apply to be on the electoral register if they will become 18 within 12 months of the period beginning with the 1 December after their application. The draft Bill therefore provides for the extension of the vote to those 16 and 17 year-olds who are eligible to be registered under the existing UK legislation.

Equalities

2.15. The draft Bill is designed to ensure equality of opportunity for people in having their say on the constitutional future of Scotland. In particular, it places responsibilities on the CCO and COs to make provisions so that as many people as possible have the opportunity to take part. These provisions follow existing legislation and practice for elections.

2.16. The draft Bill includes the following provisions to help people with disabilities to vote:

- if a voter applies to vote with the assistance of someone else on the grounds of blindness, other physical disability or an inability to read, the presiding officer of the polling station must approve the application if he is satisfied that the voter and the companion meet the terms of the legislation;

- polling stations are to be accessible to all, in line with other elections. This issue will be covered in further detail by guidance issued by the Scottish Referendum Commission;
- postal voters must be given information about how to obtain guidance for voters in Braille, pictorial format, audible format or in other formats;
- each polling station must have a sample copy of the ballot paper in large text for voters who are partially sighted, and a ‘tactile voting device’ for enabling voters who are blind or partially sighted to enable them to vote without the need for assistance; and
- an enlarged sample copy of the ballot paper must be displayed at every polling station and a translation of the ballot paper into other languages as appropriate.

2.17. In addition, there is a requirement in the draft Bill for the CO to issue to postal voters information about how to obtain translations (into languages other than English) of any directions or guidance for voters sent with the ballot paper.

QUESTION 5

What are your views on the proposals for how the poll is conducted and on eligibility to vote?
3 Regulating the Campaign

Chapter Summary

- To ensure that the referendum campaigns are run in a demonstrably fair and transparent manner it is essential that there are rules in place governing participation. The campaign rules set out in the draft Bill are largely based on existing UK legislation covering elections and referendums.

- The rules cover the regulation of the referendum by a Scottish Referendum Commission, the administration of the expenses of participants and limits on donations and spending.

- The Scottish Government does not propose that there should be any public funding of campaigning.

The Need for Campaign Rules

3.1. Current law in the UK for running a referendum has its origins in the Fifth Report of the Committee on Standards in Public Life\(^\text{16}\) which informed the Political Parties, Elections and Referendum Act 2000 (PPERA). As the PPERA rules apply only to referendums held in consequence of an Act of the UK Parliament, separate provision is required for this referendum.

3.2. The Scottish Government believes that it is essential that there are rules in place to ensure that the campaigns are run in a demonstrably fair and open manner. The proposed regime is broadly based on the rules set out in PPERA. The aim is to create a level playing field for those involved in campaigning; no political party or organisation should have an unfair advantage over another. In particular, a single wealthy organisation or individual should not be able to influence the campaign disproportionately.

The Scottish Referendum Commission

3.3. The Scottish Government’s intention is that the referendum is run to the highest international standards. It is therefore essential to ensure that the campaign rules are followed and policed. The Government believes that a regulator, in the form of a commission answerable to the Scottish Parliament, should be established to fulfil that role.

3.4. The draft Bill creates a commission - the Scottish Referendum Commission - on a one-off basis to monitor the referendum. Based on the model of the Electoral Commission, the Referendum Commission will:

\(^{16}\) ‘Standards in Public Life; The Funding of political Parties in the UK’ - The Fifth Report of the Committee on Standards in Public Life, 1998.
3 Regulating the Campaign

- take a fair and balanced approach to its activities and be seen to be operating in this manner;
- report to the Scottish Parliament; and
- be, and be seen to be, at no risk of Government influence in its affairs.

3.5. The Commission will, with limited exceptions, be completely independent of the direction of the Scottish Parliament and Government. The draft Bill proposes that there should be three Commissioners, one of whom will act as Chair. Recognising the politically sensitive nature of the referendum, elected politicians in the UK, Scottish and European Parliaments, and those with strong political affiliations over the past 5 years, are disqualified from becoming Commissioners. Each Commissioner will be nominated by the Scottish Parliament for appointment by Her Majesty The Queen. The Commission’s staff must neither be politicians nor have held strong political affiliations over the past 12 months.

3.6. The Scottish Referendum Commission’s functions will include:

- publishing guidance for voters;
- publishing guidance for Counting Officers;
- publishing guidance for permitted participants (individuals or organisations campaigning in the referendum) on the returns they must make to the Commission in relation to the money they spend on campaigning and donations they receive;
- observing the conduct of the referendum at polling stations;
- observing the conduct of the count;
- making copies of the returns detailing the money spent and donations received by permitted participants available for public inspection; and
- publishing a report on the conduct and administration of the referendum.

Participants in the Referendum Campaign

3.7. Following Part 7 of PPERA, the draft Bill provides that, if an individual or an organisation (including a political party) wishes to spend more than £3,000 on campaigning, they will have to notify the Commission that they wish to be a ‘permitted participant’.

3.8. A permitted participant will be subject to a higher spending limit as explained below.

3.9. The purpose of having declared permitted participants is to help to ensure an open campaign where those who wish to publicly support a particular outcome must publicly register that intention.

3.10. The draft Bill provides that a permitted participant may apply to the Scottish Referendum Commission to be the principal campaigner representing one of the outcomes of the referendum. These permitted participants are called ‘designated organisations’. The approach to appointing designated organisations follows the rules set out in PPERA. For example, in the 2004 referendum on whether there should be a Regional Assembly for the North East of England, “Yes4thenortheast” (Y4NE) and “North East Says No” (NESNO) were the respective ‘designated organisations’. Other groups campaigning on the Yes side, including the Labour Party, the Liberal Democrats and certain unions were affiliated with Y4NE. On the No side the Conservatives and UKIP were affiliated with NESNO. The only organisation that ran a significant campaign independently of the other organisations was the “North East No Campaign” (NENC).
3.11. A designated organisation will have a higher campaign spending limit than other permitted participants. In addition, each designated organisation will be entitled to one free mail-shot to every household in Scotland, or to every voter entitled to vote in the referendum, to promote its campaign. Designated organisations will also be entitled to use school rooms or other rooms for public campaign meetings during the four-week period before the referendum is held.

No Public Funding

3.12. The draft Bill does not provide for grants of public money to be made available to those who wish to campaign.

Spending Limits for Participants in the Referendum Campaign

3.13. For individuals or bodies that are not permitted participants, PPERA imposes a spending limit of £10,000 as a general restriction for UK-wide referendums. In recognition of the fact that this referendum will take place in Scotland only, the Scottish Government believes that the limit should be scaled down to £3,000.

3.14. There are no useful direct precedents which could be used as a starting point for spending limits for designated organisations, political parties and other groups. The limits for the 2004 North East of England referendum were so high as to have no effect (even the Y4NE campaign, which was by far the highest spending campaign, spent just over half the amount set as its spending limit) and the limits set out in PPERA itself are for UK-wide referendums. The Scottish Government therefore considers that the spending limits for political parties in Scottish Parliament election campaigns are the best starting point. A party contesting every seat in the Scottish Parliament is subject to a spending limit of about £1.5 million. However, while the referendum will be a national poll and can therefore be compared with the national element of an election campaign, there will not be local constituency campaigns in respect of any candidates. In the light of that, the Scottish Government proposes that designated organisations should each have a campaign spending limit of £750,000.

3.15. For referendums held under UK legislation, PPERA permits the largest political parties (those with over 30% of total number of votes cast at the last UK Parliamentary election) to spend the same as the designated organisations. In practice it is likely that the main political parties will be part of the designated organisations. Therefore, while political parties should not be prevented from campaigning outside of the designated organisations, the Scottish Government believes there is a case for more restrictive limits on them than the PPERA approach would provide. This would help to ensure that no group dominates the public debate by both being the main part of a designated organisation, whilst also having a large spending limit by virtue of being one of the political parties represented in the Scottish Parliament. The Scottish Government therefore proposes that the registered political parties currently represented in the Scottish Parliament should be limited to a campaign spend of £100,000, in addition to any spending as part of a designated organisation. This would still allow a significant national campaign to be carried out separately from any designated organisation.

3.16. For other groups and political parties which wish to campaign outside of the designated organisations as permitted participants (whether or not they also form part of such a group) the Scottish Government examined the limit set on third-party campaign expenditure at Scottish Parliament elections. This is currently set at £75,800. For the purposes of the referendum, and in recognition of the lack of any constituency or regional vote for candidates, the Scottish Government proposes a spending limit for such groups of £37,000. This should be enough to allow other groups to have some national impact but is also restrictive enough to encourage people to join the designated organisations if they wish to contribute more substantially.

3.17. Table 2 summarises the campaign spending limits proposed for the referendum.

</tr>
<tr>

<td>£3,000</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

3.18. Breach of these limits is treated as an offence in the same way as PPERA treats such breaches. Sanctions for non-compliance are set out in the draft Bill.

Referendum Expenses

3.19. The draft Bill provides that expenses count towards the spending limits if they support a campaign or promote an outcome. The purpose of this definition is to capture every activity that is related to campaign expenditure and the definition is, for that reason, quite broad. Expenses that count towards the spending limits include:

- campaign broadcasts;
- advertising;
- unsolicited material addressed to voters;
- any material that provides information about the referendum, its questions or promotes an outcome;
- market research or canvassing;
- press or media conferences;
- transport costs for the purposes of obtaining publicity about the referendum; and
- rallies and other forms of public meetings.

3.20. Cost savings associated with property, facilities or services that are provided free of charge or at a preferential rate are also counted as referendum expenses if they exceed £200. These are referred to as ‘notional referendum expenses’ in the draft Bill and must be declared to the Commission, along with the other expenses.

3.21. To ensure that the referendum campaign is conducted openly, it is crucial that the campaign expenditure incurred is properly accounted for and reported. Permitted participants must demonstrate that they have maintained control over what they have spent on their campaigns so that their spending can be reported and made public. The draft Bill therefore contains detailed rules, based on the provisions of PPERA, to ensure that each participant has appropriate procedures in place to authorise and account for its expenses.

Donations Made to Permitted Participants in the Referendum Campaign

3.22. Donations to registered political parties are already subject to a regulatory regime established in Part 4 of PPERA. There is therefore no need to create an additional set of rules regulating donations to political parties solely for the purposes of the referendum.

3.23. However, political parties will not be the only bodies wishing to campaign for a particular outcome at the referendum. The draft Bill therefore deals with controls of donations to permitted participants that are not registered parties or are minor parties. The rules are again based very strongly on the existing legislation for referendums in the UK, set out in PPERA. In general terms, the rules define what donations are allowed, both by description and by monetary value (or a determination of monetary value), who is allowed to make a donation and what a permitted participant must do to record and report the donations of over £500 that they receive. As under PPERA, permitted participants cannot accept anonymous donations or donations from individuals or organisations from outside the UK.

Returns to the Commission by Permitted Participants about their Campaign Finances

3.24. Permitted participants will be required to provide a report to the Commission about their finances. The draft Bill proposes a requirement that a person designated by a permitted participant as the ‘responsible person’ (in the case of a registered political party, the treasurer) must make a return to the Scottish Referendum Commission within 6 months of the date of the referendum setting out full details of expenses and donations. The Commission must make copies of the returns available for public inspection.

Government Publications during the Referendum Campaign

3.25. The Scottish Government’s aim is that the campaign should be seen to be fair and should operate on a ‘level playing field’ for all participants in the referendum. In support of this principle, the Scottish Government recognises that there should be no undue Government influence on the campaign.

3.26. The draft Bill provides that, for the 28 day period before the date of the referendum, the Scottish Ministers and certain public authorities in Scotland cannot publish any material providing general information about the referendum, dealing with issues raised by the questions to be voted on in the referendum, putting any arguments for or against a particular answer to the questions to be voted on, or which is designed to encourage voting in the referendum. This follows the approach taken in the run-up to elections.

FURTHER PROVISION ABOUT VOTING IN THE REFERENDUM

PART 1

MANNER OF VOTING

Manner of voting

1 (1) This paragraph applies to determine the manner of voting of a voter.

(2) A voter may vote in person at the polling station allotted to the voter under rule 10(1)(b) of the conduct rules, unless the voter is entitled to an absent vote in the referendum.

(3) A voter may vote by post if the voter is entitled to vote by post in the referendum.

(4) If a voter is entitled to vote by proxy in the referendum, the voter may so vote unless, before a ballot paper is issued for the voter to vote by proxy, the voter applies at the polling station allotted to the voter under rule 10(1)(b) of the conduct rules for a ballot paper for the purpose of voting in person, in which case the voter may vote in person there.

(5) If a voter—

(a) is not entitled to an absent vote in the referendum, and

(b) cannot reasonably be expected to go in person to the polling station allotted to the voter under rule 10(1)(b) of the conduct rules because of the particular circumstances of the voter’s employment, either as a constable or by the counting officer, on the date of the referendum for a purpose connected with the referendum, the voter may vote in person at any polling station in the local government area in which the polling station allotted to the voter is situated.

(6) Nothing in the preceding provisions of this paragraph applies to—

(a) a voter to whom section 7 of the 1983 Act (mental patients who are not detained offenders) applies and who is liable, by virtue of any enactment, to be detained in the mental hospital in question, whether the voter is registered by virtue of that provision or not, and such a voter may vote—

(i) in person at the polling station allotted to the voter under rule 10(1)(b) of the conduct rules (if granted permission to be absent from the hospital and voting in person does not breach any condition attached to the permission), or

(ii) by post or by proxy (if entitled so to vote in the referendum), or

(b) a voter to whom section 7A of that Act (person remanded in custody) applies, whether the voter is registered by virtue of that provision or not, and such a voter may only vote by post or by proxy (if entitled so to vote in the referendum).

(7) Sub-paragraph (2) does not prevent a voter, at the polling station allotted to the voter under rule 10(1)(b) of the conduct rules, marking a tendered ballot paper in pursuance of rule 24 of those rules.
(8) For the purposes of this schedule—
   (a) references to a voter being entitled to an absent vote in the referendum are references to the voter being entitled to vote by post or by proxy in the referendum, and
   (b) a voter is entitled to vote—
      (i) by post in the referendum if the voter is shown in the postal voters list (see paragraph 4(2)) for the referendum as so entitled,
      (ii) by proxy in the referendum if the voter is shown in the list of proxies (see paragraph 4(3)) for the referendum as so entitled.

(2) The first of those lists (the “postal voters list”) is a list of—

(a) those who are existing postal voters by reason of an entry in a record mentioned in paragraph 2(1) kept by the registration officer, together with the addresses—

(i) shown in the record mentioned in that paragraph, or

(ii) provided in any application by them under paragraph 3(5)(a),

as the addresses to which their ballot papers are to be sent, and

5 (1) Subject to the provisions of this paragraph, any person is capable of being appointed proxy to vote for another in the referendum and may vote in pursuance of the appointment.

(2) A person (“A”) cannot have more than one person at a time appointed as proxy to vote for A in the referendum.

(3) A person is not capable of being appointed to vote, or of voting, as proxy at the referendum—

(a) if the person is subject to any legal incapacity (age apart) to vote in the referendum, or

(4) A person is not capable of voting as a proxy in the referendum unless, on the date of the referendum, the person is of voting age.

(5) A person is not entitled to vote as proxy in the referendum on behalf of more than 2 others of whom that person is not the spouse, civil partner, parent, grandparent, brother, sister, child or grandchild.

(6) If there is an existing proxy for an existing proxy voter, the existing proxy is taken to have been appointed as proxy to vote for the existing proxy voter in the referendum.

(7) In sub-paragraph (6), “existing proxy” means, in relation to an existing proxy voter—

(a) a person appointed under paragraph 6(7) of Schedule 4 to the Representation of the People Act 2000 (c.2) as a proxy to vote for the existing proxy voter at local government elections, or

(b) if there is no such person, a person appointed under article 11(6) of the Scottish Parliament (Elections etc.) Order 2007 (SI 2007/937) as proxy to vote for the existing proxy voter at Scottish parliamentary elections.

(8) Where a person applies to the registration officer for the appointment of a proxy to vote for the person in the referendum, the registration officer must make the appointment if—

(a) the registration officer is satisfied that the applicant is or will be—

(i) registered in the register of electors maintained by the officer, and
(ii) entitled to vote by proxy in the referendum by virtue of paragraph 2(3) or an application under paragraph 3,

(b) the registration officer is satisfied that the proxy is capable of being and willing to be appointed, and

(c) the application meets the requirements in paragraph 7.

(9) The appointment of a proxy under this paragraph is to be made by means of a proxy paper issued by the registration officer.

(10) The appointment of a proxy to vote for a person (“A”) in the referendum—

(a) may be cancelled by A by giving notice to the registration officer, and

(b) ceases to have effect on the issue of a proxy paper appointing a different person to vote for A in the referendum.

Voting as proxy

6 (1) A person entitled to vote as proxy for another (A) in the referendum may do so in person at the polling station allotted to A under rule 10(1)(b) of the conduct rules unless the person is entitled to vote by post as proxy in the referendum, in which case the person may vote by post.

(2) Where a person is entitled to vote by post as proxy for another (“A”) in the referendum, A may not apply for a ballot paper for the purpose of voting in person at the referendum.

(3) For the purposes of this schedule, a person entitled to vote as proxy for another in the referendum is entitled so to vote by post if the person is included in the proxy postal voters list (see sub-paragraph (7)).

(4) An existing proxy is taken to have been granted a vote by post as proxy if the existing proxy is, at the cut-off date—

(a) shown in the record kept under paragraph 7(4) of Schedule 4 to the Representation of the People Act 2000 (c.2) as voting by post as proxy at local government elections for an indefinite period or for a period which extends beyond the date of the referendum, or

(b) shown in the record kept under article 9(4) of the Scottish Parliament (Elections etc.) Order 2007 (SI 2007/937) as voting by post as proxy for an indefinite period or for a period which extends beyond the referendum date.

(5) In sub-paragraph (4), “existing proxy” means a person who is taken to have been appointed as proxy by virtue of paragraph 5(6).

(6) Where a person applies to the registration officer to vote by post as proxy for another (“A”) in the referendum, the registration officer must grant the application if—

(a) the registration officer is satisfied that A is or will be registered in the register of electors maintained by the officer,

(b) there is in force an appointment of the applicant as A’s proxy to vote for A in the referendum, and

(c) the application meets the requirements in paragraph 7.

(7) The registration officer must keep a special list (the “proxy postal voters list”) of—
(a) those taken to have been granted a vote by post as proxy by virtue of sub-paragraph (4) by reason of an entry in a record mentioned in that sub-paragraph kept by the registration officer, together with the addresses shown in the record as the addresses to which their ballot papers are to be issued, and

(b) those whose applications under sub-paragraph (6) have been granted, together with the addresses provided by them in their applications as the addresses to which their ballot papers are to be issued.

(8) In the case of a person who has an anonymous entry in the register of electors, the proxy postal voters list must contain only the person’s electoral number.

(9) Sub-paragraph (2) does not prevent a person, at the polling station allotted to A under rule 10(1)(b) of the conduct rules, from marking a tendered ballot paper in pursuance of rule 24 of those rules.

Requirements as to applications

7 (1) This paragraph applies in relation to applications under paragraph 3, 5(8) or 6(6).

(2) An application must be made—

(a) in writing,

(b) before the cut-off date, and

(c) in the form determined by the registration officer.

(3) An application to vote by post (including an application to vote by post as a proxy) must contain—

(a) the applicant’s full name and date of birth,

(b) the applicant’s signature, and

(c) the address to which the ballot paper is to be sent.

(4) An application to vote by proxy must contain—

(a) the applicant’s full name and date of birth,

(b) the applicant’s signature,

(c) a statement of the reasons why the applicant’s circumstances on the date of the referendum will be or are likely to be such that the applicant cannot reasonably be expected to vote in person at the polling station allotted or likely to be allotted to the applicant, and

(d) an application under paragraph 5(8) for the appointment of a proxy.

(5) The registration officer may, in relation to any application to which sub-paragraph (3) or (4) applies, dispense with the requirement to include the applicant’s signature if the officer is satisfied that the applicant is unable—

(a) to provide a signature because—

(i) of any disability the applicant has, or

(ii) the applicant is unable to read or write, or

(b) to sign in a consistent and distinctive way because of any such disability or inability.
(6) An application for the appointment of a proxy must state the full name and address of the person whom the applicant wishes to appoint as proxy, together with that person’s family relationship, if any, with the applicant and—

(a) if the application is signed only by the applicant, the application must contain a statement signed by the applicant that the applicant has consulted the person so named and that that person is capable of being and willing to be appointed to vote as the applicant’s proxy, or

(b) if the application is signed also by the person to be appointed as proxy, must contain a statement by that person that the person is capable of being and willing to be appointed to vote as the applicant’s proxy.

Personal identifiers

8 (1) Each registration officer must keep a record in relation to persons granted applications to which paragraph 7(3) or (4) applies showing—

(a) their dates of birth, and

(b) except in cases where the officer has, under paragraph 7(5), dispensed with the requirement for a signature, their signatures.

(2) The registration officer must, as soon as possible after the cut-off date, either—

(a) provide the relevant counting officer with a copy of the information contained in the record, or

(b) give the relevant counting officer access to the information.

(3) A registration officer may disclose information contained in the record to any other registration officer if the registration officer disclosing it thinks that to do so would assist the other registration officer in the performance of the other officer’s duties.

Appeals

9 (1) An appeal under section 56 of the 1983 Act (registration appeals) which is pending when notice of the referendum is given does not prejudice the operation as respects the referendum of the decision appealed against, and anything done in pursuance of the decision is as good as if no such appeal had been brought and is not affected by the decision on the appeal.

(2) Where, as a result of the decision on an appeal under section 56 of the 1983 Act, an alteration in the register of electors is made which takes effect under section 13(5), 13A(2) or 13B(3) or (3B) of the 1983 Act on or before the date of the referendum, sub-paragraph (1) does not apply to that appeal.

PART 2

REGISTRATION

Effect of register

10 (1) A person registered in the register of electors or entered in the list of proxies is not to be excluded from voting in the referendum on any ground set out in sub-paragraph (2), but this does not prevent the rejection of the vote on a scrutiny, or affect the person’s liability to any penalty for voting.
(2) The grounds referred to in sub-paragraph (1) are—
   (a) that the person is not of voting age,
   (b) that the person is not or, on the relevant date or (in the case of a proxy) the date of the proxy’s appointment, was not—
      (i) a Commonwealth citizen,
      (ii) a citizen of the Republic of Ireland, or
      (iii) a relevant citizen of the Union,
   (c) that the person is or, on the relevant date or (in the case of a proxy) the date of the proxy’s appointment, was otherwise subject to any other legal incapacity to vote in the referendum.

(3) In sub-paragraph (2), the “relevant date” means—
   (a) in relation to a person registered in the register of electors as published in accordance with section 13(1) of the 1983 Act, the 15th October immediately preceding the date of publication of the register,
   (b) in relation to any other person registered in the register of electors, the relevant date for the purposes of section 4 of the 1983 Act.

Effect of misdescription

11 No misnomer or inaccurate description of any person or place named—
   (a) in the register of electors, or
   (b) in any list, proxy paper, ballot paper, notice or other document required for the purposes of this Act, affects the full operation of the document with respect to that person or place in any case where the description of the person or place is such as to be commonly understood.

Discharge of registration duties

(7) A tendered ballot paper must—
   (a) be of a colour—
      (i) differing from that of the other ballot papers, and
      (ii) prescribed by the Chief Counting Officer,
   (b) instead of being put into the ballot box, be given to the presiding officer and endorsed by the presiding officer with the name of the voter and the voter’s number in the register of electors, and
   (c) be set aside in a separate packet.

(8) The name of the voter and the voter’s number in the register of electors is to be entered on a list (the “tendered votes list”) and the voter must sign the list opposite the entry relating to that voter.

(9) In the case of a person voting as proxy for a voter, the number to be endorsed or entered is to be the voter’s number.
(10) This rule applies to a voter who has an anonymous entry subject to the following modifications—
   (a) in paragraphs (7)(b) and (8), the references to the voter’s name are to be ignored, and
   (b) otherwise, a reference to a person named in a register or list are to be construed as a reference to a person whose number appears on the register or list (as the case may be).

(11) This rule applies in the case of a person in respect of whom a notice has been issued under section 13B(3B) or (3D) of the 1983 Act as if—
   (a) in paragraphs (2)(a), (3)(a) or (5)(a)(i), for “named on the register” there were substituted “in respect of whom a notice under section 13B(3B) or (3D) of the 1983 Act has been issued”, and
   (b) in paragraphs (7)(b) and (8), for “the voter’s number in the register of electors” there were substituted “the number relating to that person on a notice issued under section 13B(3B) or (3D) of the 1983 Act”.

   (a) by returning it to the presiding officer, and
   (b) proving to the presiding officer’s satisfaction the fact of the inadvertence, obtain another ballot paper in the place of the returned ballot paper (the “spoilt ballot paper”).

(2) The spoilt ballot paper must be immediately cancelled.

Correction of errors on the day of poll

26 (1) The presiding officer must keep a list of persons to whom ballot papers are delivered in consequence of an alteration to the register made by virtue of section 13B(3B) or (3D) of the 1983 Act which takes effect on the day of the poll.

Procedure on close of poll

(g) any postal ballot paper or postal voting statement returned to the station.

(3) The marked copies of the register of electors and of the list of proxies are to be in one packet but must not be in the same packet as the certificates mentioned in paragraph (2)(d) or the lists mentioned in paragraph (2)(e).

(4) The packets must be accompanied by a statement (the “ballot paper account”) made by the presiding officer, showing the number of ballot papers entrusted to the presiding officer and accounting for them under the following heads—
(a) ballot papers issued and not otherwise accounted for,
(b) unused ballot papers,

(7) The counting officer must give any observers such reasonable facilities for overseeing the proceedings and such information with respect to the proceedings as the counting officer can give consistently with the orderly conduct of the proceedings and the discharge of the counting officer’s duties in connection with them.

The count

   (c) count such of the postal ballot papers as have been duly returned and record the number counted.

(2) For the purposes of paragraph (1)(b), a counting officer must—
(a) verify the ballot paper account by comparing it with the number of ballot papers recorded, the unused and spoilt ballot papers in the counting officer’s possession and the tendered votes list (opening and resealing the packets containing the unused and spoilt ballot papers and the tendered votes list), and

(b) prepare a statement as to the result of the verification (the “verification statement”).

(3) For the purposes of paragraph (1)(c), a postal ballot paper is not to be considered as having been duly returned unless it—

(a) is returned—

(i) by hand to a polling station in the same local government area, or

(ii) by hand or post to the counting officer, before the close of the poll, and

(b) is accompanied by a postal voting statement which is duly signed and states the date of birth of the voter or the voter’s proxy.

(4) The counting officer must not count the votes given on any ballot papers until—

(a) in the case of postal ballot papers, they have been mixed with ballot papers from at least one ballot box, and

(b) in the case of ballot papers from a ballot box, they have been mixed with ballot papers from at least one other ballot box.

(5) The counting officer must not count any tendered ballot paper.

(6) The counting officer must not count any postal ballot paper if, having taken steps to verify the signature and date of birth of the voter or the voter’s proxy, the counting officer is not satisfied that the postal voting statement has been properly completed.

(7) The counting officer, while counting and recording the number of ballot papers and counting the votes, must take all proper precautions for preventing any person from identifying the voter who cast the vote.

(8) The counting officer must, so far as reasonably practicable, proceed continuously with counting the votes, allowing only time for refreshment, except that the counting officer may exclude any hours between 7pm and 9am on the following morning.

(9) During the time excluded, the counting officer must take proper precautions for the security of the papers.

Rejected ballot papers

31 (1) Any ballot paper to which paragraph (2) applies is void and is not to be counted, subject to paragraph (3).

(2) This paragraph applies to a ballot paper—

(a) which does not bear the official mark,

(b) which indicates a vote both for and against a proposal,

(c) on which anything is written or marked by which the voter can be identified (other than by the printed number on the back), or

(d) which is unmarked or void for uncertainty.

(3) A ballot paper on which the vote is marked—
Draft Referendum (Scotland) Bill

(a) elsewhere than in the proper place,
(b) otherwise than by means of a cross, or
(c) by more than one mark, is not for such reason to be considered to be void by reason only of indicating a vote by means of figures or words (or any other mark) instead of a cross if, in the counting officer’s opinion, the mark clearly indicates the voter’s intention.

(4) Paragraph (3) does not apply if—
   (a) the way in which the ballot paper is marked identifies the voter, or
   (b) it can be shown that the voter can be identified from it.

(5) The counting officer must endorse the word “rejected” on any ballot paper which falls not to be counted under this rule.

(6) The counting officer must prepare a statement showing the number of ballot papers rejected under each of sub-paragraphs (a) to (d) of paragraph (2).

Counting the votes

32 The counting officer must count the votes for and against each proposal.

Decisions on ballot papers

33 The decision of the counting officer on any question arising in respect of a ballot paper is final.

Re-counts

34 (1) The Chief Counting Officer may require a counting officer to have the votes re-counted (or again re-counted).

   (2) A counting officer may have the votes re-counted (or again re-counted) if the counting officer considers it appropriate to do so.

Declaration of result

35 (1) When the result of the poll has been ascertained, the counting officer must, without delay, send to the Chief Counting Officer—
   (a) the total number of votes cast in the counting officer’s area,
   (b) the number of votes cast for and against each proposal in the area,
   (c) the verification statement prepared under rule 30, and
   (d) the number of rejected ballot papers under each head shown in the statement of rejected ballot papers prepared under rule 31.

   (2) After the Chief Counting Officer—
   (a) has received the information set out in paragraph (1) for every area, and
   (b) is satisfied that no re-count (or additional re-count) is required, the Chief Counting Officer must declare the result for the whole of Scotland (the “national declaration”).
(3) The national declaration must contain—
   (a) the total number of votes cast in the whole of Scotland,
   (b) the number of votes cast for and against each proposal in the whole of Scotland, and
   (c) the number of rejected ballot papers for the whole of Scotland.

(4) After the Chief Counting Officer has made the national declaration, the Chief Counting Officer may direct the counting officer for each area to declare the result for the counting officer’s area (a “local declaration”).

(5) A local declaration must contain—
   (a) the total number of votes cast in the counting officer’s area,
   (b) the number of votes cast for and against each proposal in the area, and
   (c) the number of rejected ballot papers in the area.

Sealing up of ballot papers

36 (1) As soon as reasonably practicable after the Chief Counting Officer has confirmed that no re-count is required, the counting officer must seal up in separate packets—
   (a) the counted ballot papers,
   (b) the rejected ballot papers, and
   (c) the postal ballot papers together with the envelopes relating to them.

(2) The counting officer must not open the sealed packets of—
   (a) tendered ballot papers,
   (b) the completed corresponding number lists,
   (c) the certificates mentioned in rule 15(5), or
   (d) marked copies of the register of electors (including any marked copy notices issued under section 13B(3B) or (3D) of the 1983 Act) and lists of proxies.

Delivery of papers

37 (1) After sealing the papers in accordance with rule 36, the counting officer must send the papers mentioned in paragraph (2) to the proper officer of the council for the local government area in which the votes being counted have been cast, endorsing on each packet a description of its contents and the date of the referendum.

(2) Those papers are—
   (a) the packets of ballot papers in the counting officer’s possession,
   (b) the ballot paper accounts, the statements of rejected ballot papers and the verification statements,
   (c) the tendered votes list, the assisted voters list, the marked votes list, the polling day alterations lists and the companion declarations,
   (d) the packets of the completed corresponding numbers lists,
   (e) the packets of the certificates mentioned in rule 15(5), and
(f) the packets containing marked copies of registers (including any marked copy notices issued under section 13B(3B) or (3D) of the 1983 Act) and of the postal voters list, of lists of proxies and of the proxy postal voters list.

Retention and public inspection of papers

38 (1) The proper officer of the council must retain for one year all papers received by virtue of rule 37.

(2) Those papers, except ballot papers, completed corresponding number lists and the certificates mentioned in rule 15(5), are to be made available for public inspection at such times and in such manner as the proper officer may determine.

(3) A person inspecting marked copies of the register of electors may not—
   (a) make copies of any part of them, or
   (b) record any particulars included in them, otherwise than by means of hand-written notes.

(4) A person who makes a copy of marked copies of the register of electors, or records any particulars included in them, otherwise than by means of hand-written notes commits an offence and is liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding level 5 on the standard scale.

(5) After the expiry of one year, the proper officer must ensure that the papers are destroyed, unless otherwise directed by an order of a sheriff principal.

Orders for production of documents

39 (1) Any sheriff principal may make an order mentioned in paragraph (2) if the sheriff principal is satisfied by evidence on oath that the order is required for the purpose of instituting or maintaining a prosecution for an offence in relation to ballot papers.

(2) An order referred to in paragraph (1) is an order for—
   (a) the inspection or production of any rejected ballot papers in the custody of a proper officer,

   (c) the inspection of any counted ballot papers in the proper officer’s custody.

(3) An order under this rule may be made subject to such conditions as to—
   (a) persons,
   (b) time,
   (c) place and mode of inspection, and
   (d) production or opening,
   as the sheriff principal considers expedient.

(4) In making and carrying out an order mentioned in paragraph (2)(b) or (c), care must be taken that the way in which the vote of any particular voter has been given will not be disclosed until it is proved—
   (a) that such vote was given, and
(b) that such vote has been declared by a competent court to be invalid.

(5) Any power given to a sheriff principal under this rule may be exercised otherwise than in open court.

(6) An appeal lies to the Court of Session from any order of a sheriff principal under this rule.

(7) Where an order is made for the production by a proper officer of any document in that officer’s custody relating to the referendum—

(a) the production by such officer or the officer’s agent of the document ordered in such manner as may be directed by that order is conclusive evidence that the document relates to the referendum, and

(b) any endorsement on any packet of ballot papers so produced is prima facie evidence that the ballot papers are what they are stated to be by the endorsement.

(8) The production from the proper officer’s custody of—

(a) a ballot paper purporting to have been used at the referendum, and

(b) a completed corresponding number list with a number marked in writing beside the number of the ballot paper, is prima facie evidence that the voter whose vote was given by that ballot paper was the person whose entry in the register of electors (or on a notice issued under section 13B(3B) or (3D) of the 1983 Act) at the time of the referendum contained the same number as the number marked as mentioned in sub-paragraph (b).

(9) Except as provided by this rule, no person is to be allowed to—

(a) inspect any rejected or counted ballot papers in the custody of the proper officer, or

(b) open any sealed packet of the completed corresponding number list or of the certificates mentioned in rule 15(5).

Power to prescribe forms

40 (1) The Chief Counting Officer must prescribe the forms to be used in the referendum.

(2) A form which is prescribed under paragraph (1) may be used with such variations as the circumstances may require.

(3) Paragraph (1) does not apply to the form of the ballot papers (for which section 1 and schedule 1 make provision).

Applications for designation under paragraph 5

A permitted participant seeking to be designated under paragraph 5 must make an application for that purpose to the Commission.

(4) Where a room is used for a meeting in pursuance of the rights conferred by this paragraph, the person by whom or on whose behalf the meeting is convened—

(a) must defray any expenses incurred in preparing, warming, lighting and cleaning the room and providing attendance for the meeting and restoring the room to its usual condition after the meeting, and

(b) must defray any damage done to the room or the premises in which it is situated, or to the furniture, fittings or apparatus in the room or premises.

(5) A person is not entitled to exercise the rights conferred by this paragraph except on reasonable notice; and this paragraph does not authorise any interference with the hours during which a room in school premises is used for educational purposes, or any interference with the use of a meeting room either for the purposes of the person maintaining it or under a prior agreement for its letting for any purpose.

(6) For the purposes of this paragraph (except those of paragraph (b) of sub-paragraph (4)), the premises of a school are not to be taken to include any private dwelling.

individual or body.

(2) Where this paragraph applies, an amount of referendum expenses determined in accordance with this paragraph (“the appropriate amount”) is to be treated, for the facilities (where the property, services or facilities is or are provided free of charge), or incurred by or on behalf of the individual or body in respect of the use of the property or the provision of the services or facilities (where the property, services or facilities is or are provided at a discount).

(6) Sub-paragraph (7) applies where the services of an employee are made available by the employee’s employer for the use or benefit of an individual or body.
(7) For the purposes of this paragraph, the amount which is to be taken as constituting the commercial rate for the provision of those services is the amount of the remuneration or allowances payable to the employee by the employer in respect of the period for which the employee’s services are made available (but do not include any amount in respect of contributions or other payments for which the employer is liable in respect of the employee).

(8) Where an amount of referendum expenses is treated, by virtue of sub-paragraph (2), as incurred by or on behalf of an individual or body during any period the whole or part of which falls within the referendum period then—

Details to appear on referendum material

27 (1) No material wholly or mainly relating to the referendum is to be published during the referendum period unless—

(a) in the case of material which is, or is contained in, such a printed document as is mentioned in sub-paragraph (3), (4) or (5), the requirements of that sub-paragraph are complied with, or

(b) in the case of any other material, the requirements of sub-paragraph (6) are complied with.

(a) the name and address of the promoter of the material, and
(b) the name and address of any person on behalf of whom the material is being published (and who is not the promoter), must be included in the material unless it is not reasonably practicable to include the details.

(a) the promoter of the material,

(b) any other person by whom the material is so published, and

(c) the printer of the document.

(8) Where during the referendum period any material falling within sub-paragraph (1)(b) is published in contravention of sub-paragraph (1), then (subject to sub-paragraph (10)) the following persons are guilty of an offence, namely—

(b) any other person by whom the material is so published.

(9) A person guilty of an offence under sub-paragraph (7) or (8) is liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding level 5 on the standard scale.

(10) It is a defence for a person charged with an offence under this paragraph to show—

(a) that the offence arose from circumstances beyond the person’s control, and

(b) that the person took all reasonable steps, and exercised all due diligence, to ensure that an offence under this paragraph would not be committed.

(11) Sub-paragraph (1) does not apply to any material published for the purposes of the referendum if the publication is required under or by virtue of any enactment.

(2) In this Part, “referendum campaign broadcast” means a broadcast the purpose (or main purpose) of which is or may reasonably be assumed to be—

(a) to further any referendum campaign, or

(b) otherwise to promote or procure any particular outcome in the referendum.
Display of advertisements

29 The Town and Country Planning (Control of Advertisements) (Scotland) Regulations 1984 (SI 1984/467) have effect in relation to the display on any site in Scotland of an advertisement relating specifically to the referendum as they have effect in relation to the display of an advertisement relating specifically to a Parliamentary election.

PART 5

CONTROL OF DONATIONS

Operation and interpretation of this Part

30 (1) This Part has effect for controlling donations to permitted participants that either are not registered parties or are minor parties.

(2) The following provisions have effect for the purposes of this Part.

(3) In accordance with sub-paragraph (1) “permitted participant” does not include a permitted participant that is a registered party other than a minor party.

(4) “Relevant donation”, in relation to a permitted participant, means a donation to the permitted participant for the purpose of meeting referendum expenses incurred by or on behalf of the permitted participant.

(5) “Donation” is to be construed in accordance with paragraphs 31 to 33.

(6) In relation to donations received by a permitted participant other than a designated organisation, references to a permissible donor falling within section 54(2) of the 2000 Act do not include a registered party.

Donations: general rules

31 (1) “Donation”, in relation to a permitted participant, means (subject to paragraph 33)—

(a) a gift to the permitted participant of money or other property,

(b) any sponsorship provided in relation to the permitted participant (as defined by paragraph 32),

(c) any money spent (otherwise than by or on behalf of the permitted participant) in paying any referendum expenses incurred by or on behalf of the permitted participant,

(d) any money lent to the permitted participant otherwise than on commercial terms,

(e) the provision otherwise than on commercial terms of any property, services or facilities for the use or benefit of the permitted participant (including the services of any person),

(f) in the case of a permitted participant other than an individual, any subscription or other fee paid for affiliation to, or membership of, the permitted participant.

(2) Where—

(a) any money or other property is transferred to a permitted participant pursuant to any transaction or arrangement involving the provision by or on behalf of the permitted participant of any property, services or facilities or other consideration of monetary value, and
(b) the total value in monetary terms of the consideration so provided by or on behalf of the permitted participant is less than the value of the money or (as the case may be) the market value of the property transferred, the transfer of the money or property is (subject to sub-paragraph (4)) to be taken to be a gift to the permitted participant for the purposes of sub-paragraph (1)(a).

(3) In determining—

(a) for the purposes of sub-paragraph (1)(d) whether any money lent to a permitted participant is so lent otherwise than on commercial terms, or

(b) for the purposes of sub-paragraph (1)(e) whether any property, services or facilities provided for the use or benefit of a permitted participant is or are so provided otherwise than on such terms, regard must be had to the total value in monetary terms of the consideration provided by or on behalf of the permitted participant in respect of the loan or the provision of the property, services or facilities.

(4) Where (apart from this sub-paragraph) anything would be a donation both by virtue of sub-paragraph (1)(b) and by virtue of any other provision of this paragraph, sub-paragraph (1)(b) (together with paragraph 32) applies in relation to it to the exclusion of the other provision of this paragraph.

(5) Anything given or transferred to any officer, member, trustee or agent of a permitted participant in the officer’s, member’s, trustee’s or agent’s capacity as such (and not for the officer’s, member’s, trustee’s or agent’s own use or benefit) is to be regarded as given or transferred to the permitted participant (and references to donations received by a permitted participant accordingly include donations so given or transferred).

(6) In this paragraph—

(a) any reference to anything being given or transferred to a permitted participant or any other person is a reference to its being given or transferred either directly or indirectly through any third person,

(b) “gift” includes bequest.

Sponsorship

32 (1) For the purposes of this schedule sponsorship is provided in relation to a permitted participant if—

(a) any money or other property is transferred to the permitted participant or to any person for the benefit of the permitted participant, and

(b) the purpose (or one of the purposes) of the transfer is (or must, having regard to all the circumstances, reasonably be assumed to be)—

(i) to help the permitted participant with meeting, or to meet, to any extent any defined expenses incurred or to be incurred by or on behalf of the permitted participant, or

(ii) to secure that to any extent any such expenses are not so incurred.

(2) In sub-paragraph (1) “defined expenses” means expenses in connection with—

(a) any conference, meeting or other event organised by or on behalf of the permitted participant,
(b) the preparation, production or dissemination of any publication by or on behalf of the permitted participant, or
(c) any study or research organised by or on behalf of the permitted participant.

(3) The following do not, however, constitute sponsorship by virtue of sub-paragraph (1)—
(a) the making of any payment in respect of—
   (i) any charge for admission to any conference, meeting or other event, or
   (ii) the purchase price of, or any other charge for access to, any publication,
(b) the making of any payment in respect of the inclusion of an advertisement in any publication where the payment is made at the commercial rate payable for the inclusion of such an advertisement in any such publication.

(4) In this paragraph “publication” means a publication made available in whatever form and by whatever means (whether or not to the public at large or any section of the public).

Payments etc. not to be regarded as donations

33 (1) None of the following is to be regarded as a donation—
(a) any grant provided out of public funds,
(b) the provision of any rights conferred on a designated organisation (or persons authorised by a designated organisation) by virtue of paragraphs 7 to 9,
(c) the provision by an individual of the individual’s own services which the individual provides voluntarily in the individual’s own time and free of charge, or
(d) any interest accruing to a permitted participant in respect of any donation which is dealt with by the permitted participant in accordance with paragraph 36(3)(a) or (b)).

(2) Any donation the value of which (as determined in accordance with paragraph 34) is not more than £500 is to be disregarded.

Value of donations

34 (1) The value of any donation falling within paragraph 31(1)(a) (other than money) is to be taken to be the market value of the property in question.

(2) Where, however, paragraph 31(1)(a) applies by virtue of paragraph 31(2), the value of the donation is to be taken to be the difference between—
(a) the value of the money, or the market value of the property, in question, and
(b) the total value in monetary terms of the consideration provided by or on behalf of the permitted participant.

(3) The value of any donation falling within paragraph 31(1)(b) is to be taken to be the value of the money, or (as the case may be) the market value of the property, transferred as mentioned in paragraph 32(1) and accordingly any value in monetary terms of any benefit conferred on the person providing the sponsorship in question is to be disregarded.

(4) The value of any donation falling within paragraph 31(1)(d) or (e) is to be taken to be the amount representing the difference between—
(a) the total value in monetary terms of the consideration that would have had to be provided by or on behalf of the permitted participant in respect of the loan or the provision of the property, services or facilities if—
(i) the loan had been made, or
(ii) the property, services or facilities had been provided, on commercial terms, and
(b) the total value in monetary terms of the consideration (if any) actually so provided by or on behalf of the permitted participant.

(5) Where a donation such as is mentioned in sub-paragraph (4) confers an enduring benefit on the donee over a particular period, the value of the donation—
(a) is to be determined at the time when it is made, but
(b) is to be so determined by reference to the total benefit accruing to the donee over that period.

Prohibition on accepting donations from impermissible donors

35 (1) A relevant donation received by a permitted participant must not be accepted by the permitted participant if—
(a) the person by whom the donation would be made is not, at the time of its receipt by the permitted participant, a permissible donor falling within section 54(2) of the 2000 Act, or
(b) the permitted participant is (whether because the donation is given anonymously or by reason of any deception or concealment or otherwise) unable to ascertain the identity of the person offering the donation.

(2) For the purposes of this schedule, any relevant donation received by a permitted participant which is an exempt trust donation is to be regarded as a relevant donation received by the permitted participant from a permissible donor falling within section 54(2) of the 2000 Act.

(3) But, for the purposes of this schedule, any relevant donation received by a permitted participant from a trustee of any property (in the trustee’s capacity as such) which is not—
(a) an exempt trust donation, or
(b) a relevant donation transmitted by the trustee to the permitted participant on behalf of beneficiaries under the trust who are—
(i) persons who at the time of its receipt by the permitted participant are permissible donors falling within section 54(2) of the 2000 Act, or (ii) the members of an unincorporated association which at that time is such a permissible donor, is to be regarded as a relevant donation received by the permitted participant from a person who is not such a permissible donor.

(4) Where any person (“the principal donor”) causes an amount (“the principal donation”) to be received by a permitted participant by way of a relevant donation—
(a) on behalf of the principal donor and one or more other persons, or
(b) on behalf of two or more other persons,
then for the purposes of this schedule each individual contribution by a person falling within paragraph (a) or (b) of more than £500 is to be treated as if it were a separate donation received from that person.

(5) In relation to each such separate donation, the principal donor must ensure that, at the time when the principal donation is received by the permitted participant, the responsible person is given—

(a) (except in the case of a donation which the principal donor is treated as making) all such details in respect of the person treated as making the donation as are required by virtue of paragraph 41(1)(c) to be given in respect of the donor of a donation to which that paragraph applies, and

(b) (in any case) all such details in respect of the donation as are required by virtue of paragraph 41(1)(a).

(6) Where—

(a) any person ("the agent") causes an amount to be received by a permitted participant by way of a donation on behalf of another person ("the donor"), and

(b) the amount of the donation is more than £500,

the agent must ensure that, at the time when the donation is received by the permitted participant, the responsible person is given all such details in respect of the donor as are required by virtue of paragraph 41(1)(c) to be given in respect of the donor of a donation to which that paragraph applies.

(7) A person commits an offence if, without reasonable excuse, the person fails to comply with sub-paragraph (5) or (6).

(8) A person guilty of an offence under sub-paragraph (7) is liable—

(a) on summary conviction, to imprisonment for a term not exceeding 12 months or to a fine not exceeding the statutory maximum (or both),

(b) on conviction on indictment, to imprisonment for a term not exceeding 12 months or to a fine (or both).

Acceptance or return of donations

36 (1) Sub-paragraph (2) applies where—

(a) a donation is received by a permitted participant, and

(b) it is not immediately decided that the permitted participant should (for whatever reason) refuse the donation.

(2) All reasonable steps must be taken forthwith by or on behalf of the permitted participant to verify (or, so far as any of the following is not apparent, ascertain)—

(a) the identity of the donor,

(b) whether the donor is a permissible donor falling within section 54(2) of the 2000 Act, and

(c) if it appears that the donor is such a permissible donor, all such details in respect of the donor as are required by virtue of paragraph 41(1)(c) to be included in a statement under paragraph 40 in respect of a relevant donation.
(3) If a permitted participant receives a donation which the permitted participant is prohibited from accepting by virtue of paragraph 35(1), or which it is decided the permitted participant should refuse, then—

(a) unless the donation falls within paragraph 35(1)(b), the donation, or a payment of an equivalent amount, must be sent back to the person who made the donation or any person appearing to be acting on that person’s behalf,

(b) if the donation falls within that paragraph, the required steps (see paragraph 37(1)) must be taken in relation to the donation, within the period of 30 days beginning with the date when the donation is received by the permitted participant.

(4) The permitted participant and the responsible person are each guilty of an offence if—

(a) sub-paragraph (3)(a) applies in relation to a donation, and

(b) the donation is not dealt with in accordance with that sub-paragraph.

(5) It is a defence for a permitted participant or responsible person charged with an offence under sub-paragraph (4) to show that—

(a) all reasonable steps were taken by or on behalf of the permitted participant to verify (or ascertain) whether the donor was a permissible donor within section 54(2) of the 2000 Act, and

(b) as a result, the responsible person believed the donor to be such a permissible donor.

(6) The responsible person in relation to a permitted participant is guilty of an offence if—

(a) sub-paragraph (3)(b) applies in relation to a donation, and

(b) the donation is not dealt with in accordance with that sub-paragraph.

(7) A person guilty of an offence under sub-paragraph (4) or (6) is liable—

(a) on summary conviction, to imprisonment for a term not exceeding 12 months or to a fine not exceeding the statutory maximum (or both),

(b) on conviction on indictment, to imprisonment for a term not exceeding 12 months or to a fine (or both).

(8) For the purposes of this schedule, a donation received by a permitted participant is to be taken to have been accepted by the permitted participant unless—

(a) it is dealt with in accordance with sub-paragraph (3), and

(b) a record can be produced of the receipt of the donation and of its having been dealt with in accordance with that sub-paragraph.

(9) Where a donation is received by a permitted participant in the form of an amount paid into an account held by the permitted participant with a financial institution, it is to be taken for the purposes of this schedule to have been received by the permitted participant at the time when the permitted participant is notified in the usual way of the payment into the account.

Return of donation where donor unidentifiable

37 (1) For the purposes of paragraph 36(3)(b), the required steps are—
(a) if the donation was transmitted by a person other than the donor and the identity of that person is apparent, to return the donation to that person,

(b) if paragraph (a) does not apply but it is apparent that the donor has, in connection with the donation, used any facility provided by an identifiable financial institution, to return the donation to that institution, or

(c) in any other case, to send the donation to the Commission.

(2) In sub-paragraph (1) any reference to returning or sending a donation to any person or body includes a reference to sending a payment of an equivalent amount to that person or body.

(3) Any amount sent to the Commission in pursuance of sub-paragraph (1)(c) is to be paid by the Commission into the Scottish Consolidated Fund.

Forfeiture of donations made by impermissible or unidentifiable donors

38 (1) This paragraph applies to any donation received by a permitted participant—

(a) which, by virtue of paragraph 35(1), the permitted participant is prohibited from accepting, but

(b) which has been accepted by the permitted participant.

(2) The sheriff may, on the application of the Commission, order the forfeiture by the permitted participant of an amount equal to the value of the donation.

(3) An order may be made under this paragraph whether or not proceedings are brought against any person for an offence connected with the donation.

(4) Proceedings on an application for an order under this paragraph are civil proceedings and, accordingly, the standard of proof that applies is that applicable in civil proceedings.

(5) The permitted participant may appeal to the Court of Session against an order made under this paragraph.

(6) Provision may be made by rules of court—

(a) with respect to applications and appeals under this paragraph,

(b) for the giving of notice of such applications or appeals to person affected by them,

(c) for the sisting of such persons as parties.

(7) An amount forfeited by virtue of an order under this paragraph is to be paid into the Scottish Consolidated Fund.

(8) Sub-paragraph (7) does not apply—

(a) where an appeal is made under sub-paragraph (5), before the appeal is determined or otherwise disposed of, or

(b) in any other case, before the end of any period within which, in accordance with rules of court, an appeal under sub-paragraph (5) is to be made.

Evasion of restrictions on donations

39 (1) A person commits an offence if the person—

(a) knowingly enters into, or
(b) knowingly does any act in furtherance of, any arrangement which facilitates or is likely to facilitate, whether by means of any concealment or disguise or otherwise, the making of relevant donations to a permitted participant by any person or body other than a permissible donor falling within section 54(2) of the 2000 Act.

(2) A person commits an offence if the person—
(a) knowingly gives the responsible person in relation to a permitted participant any information relating to—
(i) the amount of any relevant donation made to the permitted participant, or
(ii) the person or body making such a donation, which is false in a material particular, or
(b) with intent to deceive, withholds from the responsible person in relation to a permitted participant any material information relating to a matter within paragraph (a)(i) or (ii).

(3) A person guilty of an offence under this paragraph is liable—
(a) on summary conviction, to imprisonment for a term not exceeding 12 months or to a fine not exceeding the statutory maximum (or both),
(b) on conviction on indictment, to imprisonment for a term not exceeding 12 months or to a fine (or both).

Statement of relevant donations

40 The responsible person in relation to a permitted participant must include in any return required to be prepared under paragraph 21 a statement of relevant donations which complies with paragraphs 41 and 42.

Donations from permissible donors

41 (1) The statement must record, in relation to each relevant donation falling within sub-paragraph (2) which is accepted by the permitted participant—
(a) the amount of the donation (if a donation of money, in cash or otherwise) or (in any other case) the nature of the donation and its value as determined in accordance with paragraph 34,
(b) the date when the donation was accepted by the permitted participant, and
(c) the information about the donor which is, in connection with recordable donations to registered parties, required to be recorded in donation reports by virtue of paragraph 2 of Schedule 6 to the 2000 Act.

(2) Sub-paragraph (1) applies to a relevant donation where—
(a) the value of the donation is more than £7,500, or
(b) the value of the donation, when added to the value of any other donation or donations made by the same donor (whether or not falling within paragraph (a)), is more than that amount.

(3) The statement must also record the total value of any relevant donations, other than those falling within sub-paragraph (2), which are accepted by the permitted participant.
(4) In the case of a donation made by an individual who has an anonymous entry in an electoral register (within the meaning of the 1983 Act) if the statement states that the permitted participant has seen evidence that the individual has such an anonymous entry, the statement must be accompanied by a copy of the evidence.

Donations from impermissible or unidentifiable donors

42 (1) This paragraph applies to relevant donations falling within paragraph 35(1)(a) or (b).

(2) Where paragraph 35(1)(a) applies, the statement must record—
   (a) the name and address of the donor,
   (b) the amount of the donation (if a donation of money, in cash or otherwise) or (in any other case) the nature of the donation and its value as determined in accordance with paragraph 34, and
   (c) the date when the donation was received, and the date when, and the manner in which, it was dealt with in accordance with paragraph 36(3)(a).

(3) Where paragraph 35(1)(b) applies, the statement must record—
   (a) details of the manner in which the donation was made,
   (b) the amount of the donation (if a donation of money, in cash or otherwise) or (in any other case) the nature of the donation and its value as determined in accordance with paragraph 34, and
   (c) the date when the donation was received, and the date when, and the manner in which, it was dealt with in accordance with paragraph 36(3)(b).

SCHEDULE 5
(introduced by section 11)

1 (1) A person is guilty of a corrupt practice if the person commits, or aids, abets, counsels or procures the commission of, the offence of personation at the referendum.

(2) A person (A) is guilty of personation at the referendum if—
   (a) A votes in person or by post as some other person, whether as a voter or as proxy, and whether that other person is living or dead or is a fictitious person, or
   (b) A votes, as proxy, in person or by post—
       (i) for a person whom A knows or has reasonable grounds for supposing to be dead or to be a fictitious person, or
       (ii) when A knows or has reasonable grounds for supposing that A’s appointment as proxy is no longer in force.

(3) For the purposes of this paragraph, a person who has applied for a ballot paper for the purpose of voting in person or who has marked, whether validly or not, and returned a ballot paper issued for the purpose of voting by post, is deemed to have voted.
Other voting offences

2  (1) A person (A) is guilty of an offence if—
   (a) A votes in person or by post in the referendum, whether as a voter or as proxy, or applies to vote by proxy or by post as a voter in the referendum knowing that A is subject to a legal incapacity to vote in the referendum, or
   (b) A applies for the appointment of a proxy to vote for A in the referendum knowing that A or the person to be appointed is subject to a legal incapacity to vote in the referendum, or
   (c) A votes, whether in person or by post, as proxy for some other person in the referendum, knowing that the other person is subject to a legal incapacity to vote.

(2) For the purposes of sub-paragraph (1), references to a person being subject to a legal incapacity to vote do not, in relation to things done before the date of the referendum, include the person’s being below voting age if the person will be of voting age on that date.

(3) A person (A) is guilty of an offence if—
   (a) A votes as a voter more than once in the referendum,
   (b) A votes as a voter in person in the referendum when A is entitled to vote by post, referendum or is entitled to vote by post in the referendum, or

   (d) A applies for a person to be appointed as A’s proxy to vote for A in the referendum without applying for the cancellation of a previous appointment of a third person then in force in respect of the referendum or without withdrawing a pending application for such an appointment in respect of the referendum.

(4) A person (A) is guilty of an offence if—
   (a) A votes as proxy for the same voter more than once in the referendum,
   (b) A votes in person as proxy for a voter in the referendum when A is entitled to vote by post as proxy in the referendum for that voter, or
   (c) A votes in person as proxy for a voter in the referendum knowing that the voter has already voted in person in the referendum.

(5) A person (A) is guilty of an offence if A votes in the referendum as proxy for more than two persons of whom A is not the spouse, civil partner, parent, grandparent, brother, sister, child or grandchild.

(6) A person (A) is guilty of an offence if A knowingly induces or procures some other person to do an act which is, or but for that other person’s want of knowledge would be, an offence by that other person under any of sub-paragraphs (1) to (5).

(7) For the purposes of this paragraph a person who has applied for a ballot paper for the purpose of voting in person, or who has marked, whether validly or not, and returned a ballot paper issued for the purpose of voting by post, is deemed to have voted, but for the purpose of determining whether an application for a ballot paper constitutes an offence under sub-paragraph (4), a previous application made in circumstances which entitle the applicant only to mark a tendered ballot paper is, if the person does not exercise that right, to be disregarded.
(8) A person is not guilty of an offence under sub-paragraph (3)(b) or (4)(b) only by reason of the person’s having marked a tendered ballot paper in pursuance of rule 24 of the conduct rules.

(9) An offence under this paragraph is an illegal practice, but the court before which a person is convicted of any such offence may, if the court thinks it just in the special circumstances of the case, mitigate or entirely remit any incapacity imposed by virtue of paragraph 18.

Imitation poll cards

3 (1) A person commits an offence if the person, for the purpose of promoting or procuring a particular outcome at the referendum, issues any poll card or document so closely resembling an official poll card as to be calculated to deceive.

(2) An offence under sub-paragraph (1) is an illegal practice, but the court before which a person is convicted of any such offence may, if the court thinks it just in the special circumstances of the case, mitigate or entirely remit any incapacity imposed by virtue of paragraph 18.

Offences relating to applications for postal and proxy votes

4 (1) A person (A) commits an offence if A—

   (a) engages in an act specified in sub-paragraph (2) in connection with the referendum, and

   (b) intends, by doing so, to deprive another of an opportunity to vote in the referendum or to make for A or another a gain of a vote in the referendum to which A or the other is not otherwise entitled or a gain of money or property.

(2) These are the acts—

   (a) applying for a postal or proxy vote as some other person (whether that other person is living or dead or is a fictitious person),

   (b) otherwise making a false statement in, or in connection with, an application for a postal or proxy vote,

   (c) inducing the registration officer or counting officer to send a postal ballot paper or any communication relating to a postal or proxy vote to an address which has not been agreed to by the person entitled to the vote,

   (d) causing a communication relating to a postal or proxy vote or containing a postal ballot paper not to be delivered to the intended recipient.

(3) In sub-paragraph (1)(b) above, property includes any description of property.

(4) In sub-paragraph (2) a reference to a postal vote or a postal ballot paper includes a reference to a proxy postal vote or proxy postal ballot paper (as the case may be).

(5) A person guilty an offence under sub-paragraph (1), or who aids, abets, counsels or procures the commission of such an offence, is guilty of a corrupt practice.
